Rebels, who had fought the nationalist defenders of Canton since Monday night, were halted at least temporarily and thrust back after penetrating the loyalist lines to within 7 miles of the city. With thousands of casualties on each side, Canton's hospitals were filled with wounded, while others continued to arrive. The famous "Ironsides division," which led the rebel attack, was said to have lost 5,000 men, captured in a nationalist trap while retreating.

Severe fighting was found in his parked automobile in the 800-block on Angier avenue the following morning.

STATE "BAD CHECK" STATUTE UPHELD BY SUPREME COURT

Constitutionality of the Georgia "bad check" law of 1924 was upheld by the supreme court Wednesday. Chief Justice Richard B. Russell and Associate Justice Sam C. Atkinson Validity of the law was questioned in habeas corpus proceedings brought by W. F. Carter, of Atlanta, who was convicted in Fulton superior court of giving a check on a bank in which he had no money and no credit. He contended that the law, which makes issuance of a bad check prima facie evidence of intent to defraud, deprived him of due process of law.

The majority conjuice delayed that

The majority opinion declared that "the act under review does not create a presumption that has no logical connection with the proven facts, which are declared to support the prima facie presumption."

presumption."

The dissenting opinion urged that there are many instances when deals are closed upon issuance of a check, with the parties in full knowledge that it is worthless at the time. This, it was said, was illegal as the act was construed in the majority opinion. Without deception there cannot be fraud, it was objected.

Atlanta Leaders Promise MACON TO VIDALIA TRAIN SCHEDULE ORDERED REVISED

The schedule of the Macon, Dublin & Savannah railroad. between Macon and Vidalia, was ordered revised by the Georgia public service commission Wednesday.

Under the ruling a train will leave Macon at 7 a. m. and arrive at Vidalia at 10 o'clock. Returning, it will leave Vidalia at 1:15 p. m. and arrive at Macon at 4:40 o'clock. The present schedule calls for a morning trip into Macon and an afternoon one to Vidalia.

The revision was asked in a petition by citizens of Jeffersonville, who appeared before the commission Wednesday. The railroad took no position in the matter.

The commission dismissed a petition by the Louisville & Nashville railroad asking authority to discontinue its agency station at Ranger and to substitute caretaker service.

No action was taken Wednesday on a request of citizens of Dupont for restoration of trains Nos. 42 and 43 on the Atlantic Coast Line railroad between Dupont and Waycross and for improvements in depot facilities at Dupont. Hearing of the case was completed during the day.

The resolution will be brought up on Friday in the senate with indications obtain action on the resolution is the form it passed the house, senate leaders held out little hope to night for the Couzens proposal.

The resolution provides for slashing 1 per cent off existing rates on the individual and corporation levies. The cut would apply to incomes of this calendar year.

Discussing his amendment, Senator Couzens, who is a member of the finance committee, explained that it would not go into effect until next year and would have no effect on the 1930 income of the treasury.

"There is a large body of public opinion," said Couzens, "that believes there would be a freer exchange of capital assets if the capital gains tax is not so large. It is contended that there is much frozen real estate and stocks which the owners would like to sell but decline to because of the large capital gains tax.

"It is also contended that because of this condition a shortage in stocks was created which played a part in the recent stock market situation. This would be a real aid to business for 1930. I don't believe the proposed resolution accomplishes that purpose."

which six were killed or fatally wounded.

Eight deputy sheriffs are on trial here on a change of venue from McDowell county, charged with second degree murder. C. L. Moody, a textile union member in Marion, testified he saw the deputies fire into the crowd as the strikers began running away to escape the blinding tear gas. Moody was one of a number of witnesses who took the stand today to tell of various phases of the disorder, for which Deputy Sheriffs B. L. Robbins, Dave Jarrett, Jim Owens, Charles Tate, Taylor Green, William Twiggs, Robert Ward and W. A. Fender are on trial.

Twiggs, Robert Ward and W. A. Fender are on trial.
Out of one of the witnesses for the state, the defense brought the statement under cross-examination that pistol; cartridges were found in the pockets of Tilden Carver, one of the men fatally wounded, when he was taken to the Marion general hospital for treatment.

taken to the Marion general hospital for treatment.

Dr. J. F. Miller, manager of the hospital, said a number of cartridges were found in Carver's pockets, but Carver's wife, who followed bim on the stand, said her husband's pistol was at home on the day of the shooting. State witnesses had testified that none of the strikers at the mill were armed.

The physician told of the deaths in the bospital of Carver, Randolph Hall, James Roberts, Luther Bryson and George Jonas. He said Jonas had a handruff on his left wrist when he came to the hospital. Samuel Virkers, the sixth striker killed, died before he could be taken to the hospital.

Rom Minish was the first witness

All Minish was the first witness in the trual.

Minish, a striker, said he walked away trom the mill gate when the officers creased tear gas bombs and began firing. He denied there had been any disorders.

On cross-examination he said he did not hear Sheriff Oscar F. Adkinstell the strikers they should not keep men out of the mill who wanted to work.

He said some of the pickets had "barked" at men-union workers entering the mill "as if they were dogs."

At this juncture Judga G. V. Cowper, of Kinston, presiding at the special term called by Governar Gardner, said he felt the jury should be advised at this time that "laboring men have the right to organize."

Cohen, divorced by Mrs. Anna Cohen last November 3, had traveled about between St. Louis, Miami, Fla., and Chicago, last word of him having been received a week ago by a brother, Harry Cohen, who lives at Miami. In a telegram to Harry Cohen sent from Chicago, Benjamin Cohen had said he did not know where he would go from there.

The body, fully clad, bore a bullet wound in the left chest. There was no bullet hole in the coat or vest and the bullet had entered from the side. There was no water in the lungs. Cohen was last seen here November 11, after his return from Misami, Fla., in his sedan driven by his chauffeur, August Heil. At Heil's home it was said that Cohen left alone, ending Heil's employment.

Resolutions Passed Urging

"It is better to dwell in the corner of the housetop than with a brawling woman in a wide house," the supreme court of Georgia declared Wednesday, rising above the prosaic language of the law to affirm in terms of elequence a decree of total divorce granted Edgar A. Ross from Cora M. Ross by the Fulton superior court.

Ross averred that his wife's nagging made it necessary for him to live in a back room of his house, and that he was forced to do his own cooking and make his own bed.

"From the days of Socrates and Xantippe men and women have known what is meant by nagging, although what is meant by nagging although what is meant by nagging although what is meant by nagging although where the course of the c

Grundy as a senator will be re pulsive to public sentiment because he believes in the free use of money to buy official power in state and nation. Legislators, governors, senators and presidents, in his plan of government, should be selected by and be subservient to those who pay the price of their elections. He holds that the political and economic ends to be attained justify the means, and that money is the success-making means. All of which Is distinctly antagonistic to American ideas of political policy and

Also Grundy is obsessed by the opinion that legislation should serve the money interests and not the majority of the people. The equality of sovereign states in the senate, inflexibly fixed by the constitution, is all wrong to him. The western is all wrong to him. DAIRYING IN GEORGIA.

One of the most important industrial conferences of the epoch will be held in Atlanta on Monday, under auspices of the Citizens and Southern and the First National banks. It is promoted by the J. C. Mr. Penney long ago sensed the inexcelled advantages in the south wise old town. Although not a sinfor the culture of dairy herds and gle Frenchman has come forward to the operation of plants to supply put himself up as candidate, and you dairy products. He initiated experiments on his own ideas and capital to test his judgment and has demonstrated the correctness of it with splendid herds and profitable plants for processing and marketing dairy products.

Not only are there large consumng markets all over the south calling for such products daily, but there are transport facilities for sending the overplus of the factories to reachable markets that are clamoring every hour for milk and butter and cheeses.

It does not demand expert geogarch tariff booster and campaign raphers, topographic engineers, and "fat-fryer" for the republican party, trained agronomists to testify that here in Georgia we have an ideal States senate, which that body, by a Beulah land for "Bossy" and all near three-to-one vote, denied to the good things she produces. spective ladies' dowries has some-thing to do with this lukewarmness, thing to do with this lukewarmness, the French papers are going at it hammer and tongs debating the merits of the scheme. Nobody dismisses the proposal as absolutely silly, and "fini" therewith. No, the mondaine chroniclers proceed to examine the pros and cons with mock seriousness and all the satire they can muster. That they put no stock in it as a remedy to insure peace is evident insure peace is remedy to insure peace is evident from their dissertations, which remain on an entirely different level than the exalted plane of international relations. The guarantee of virtue, put up by "Die Welt am Morgen" amuses them most of all, and around that point they are now arguing and counter-arguing for weeks.

The bald-headed fact, often stated in this column, is that in Georgia

Revenge.

Now that the trials of Arabs implicated in the August disturbances in Palestine have practically been concluded, and several of the ringleaders have been condemned to death, the remarkable phenomenon produces itself that Jews the world over are itself that Jews the world over are taking steps to petition the Palestine government to commute the death sentence for these convicted murderers. The great Einstein is one of the principal movers in this matter. It's the more remarkable since not a sin-gle Moslem or Christian Arab or-ganization in Palestine took the trouble to take the initiative. At the risk of having their petition de-nounced as a sign of weakness by the agitators of the Syro-Palestine committee in Egypt and elsewhere, The republican party, during its career of 70 years has presented the nation with many notorious examples of its "pay-as-you-enter" policy in acquiring offices and purchasing favoristic legislation. The "Shalem." It means peace. It's the old Biblical: "Peace be unto you!" They wish you "shalom" instead of saying good morning or good night. It is no idle phrase.

Soon after this statement was exposure. bama and Georgia, a strong editorial appeared in The Constitution entitled "A Challenge to Georgia," in which Georgia was urged to accept the chal-lenge of Alabama and build a high-way from the Georgia line via Cedar-

On December 5 a delegation of citizens from Cedartown, Rockmart and other towns in this section appeared before the state highway board and asked that highway No. 6, extending this paved highway from the Alabama line through Cedartown, Rockmart, Dallas and Powder Springs be placed Dallas and Fowder Springs be placed on the five-year paving program, and that the necessary paving be done as early as possible to the extent of con-necting the Georgia textile plants of Goodyear with the Gadsden rubber

bilities of future expansion if condi-tions are made favorable for such development, I believe there would be a general desire that the state highway board give early consideration to plans for connecting these mills with a paved highway. The Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company located its first mill at Ce dartown, and the result of this experi-ment was so satisfactory that the loca-tion of the rubber plant of Gadsden followed, and during this year the capacity of the Cedartown mill has been enlarged to 50,000 spindles, a new mill has been built at Rockmart and formally opened on December 12, with 50,000 spindles, and the Atco mill at Cartersville, has been acquired and enlarged with a capacity of 50,000 spinvery day. Oh, I know just how it dies, all of these mills to be operated day and night, and there is a proba-bility that these mills may be enlarged in the future.

Now Up to Georgia.

Ordinary dirt roads will not stand up under the traffic that will pass between the rubber plant at Gadsden-and the textile plants in Georgia, and Goodyear located their additional tex-tile plants in Polk and Bartow counties upon the theory that the state of Georgia would do as much to encour-age industrial development as the state of Alabama, and that when Alabama builds the hard-surface road to the Polk county line, as promised, Geor-gia will do her part and pave the necessary link connecting the textile plants in this state.

At the hearing before the highway board a telegram was read from the Gadsden Chamber of Commerce stating that construction work on this highway has been been under the least the construction work on this highway has been been under the least the le highway has been begun and is pro-ceeding on the Alabama side, and ex-pressing the earnest desire that Geor-gia highway No. 6 be included in the gia highway No. 6 be included in the next paving program so as to provide a hard-surface road Birmingham via Gadsden, Piedmont and Cedartown. Another telegram from President Litchfield, of Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company, stated that any future expansion of Goodyear in Georgia would depend upon what action Georgia

FIFTH OUTBREAK

IN SIX MONTHS. NEW YORK, Dec. 11.—(P)—To-day's mutiny of convicts at Auburn prison is the fifth major outbreak which has occurred in penitentiaries throughout the country in the past six months, taking the lives of 18 guards and prisoners and causing prison property loss of more than $1,000,000. It was the second outbreak within that period at Auburn. Fifty long-term convicts attempted a wholesale delivery at Auburn one quiet Sunday last July when two-thirds of the guard forces was off duty. BY GLADSTONE WILLIAMS. WASHINGTON, Dec. 11:-Urging the construction of what has been characterized as the "great circle waway" Representative Charlese G. Edwards, of Georgia, in an address before the National Rivers and Harbors congress, which opened here yesterday, demanded that congress embark without delay upon the policy of improving as rapidly as practicable not only the Great Lakes and watermot only the Great Lakes and water-ways connecting them with the Atlan-tic and Gulf of Mexico, but also the Atlantic coast inland waterway, the intercoastal waterway along the gulf coast, and the construction of a canal across southern Georgia and northern Florida.

In addition to Mr. Edwards, Georgia was represented at the rivers and harbors annual congress by a delega-tion which came to Washington espetion which came to Washington especially to urge action on the proposed cross-state canal. The group includes T. G. Woolford, of Atlanta, chairman of the Georgia state canal commission; Lee Worsham, of Atlanta; Ralston Cargill, of Columbus, and Collector of Customs M. O. Dunning of Savannah.

Resolutions were presented by the state group seeking to have the rivers and harbors congress go on record in favor of the Georgia-Florida canal and these are expected to be favorably noted upon before the session adjourns later in the week, Tomorrow Messrs.

Dunning, Woolford and Randolph have an engagement to discuss the canal project with President Hoover at the White House. The president will be urged to recommend legislation on the subject during the present regular session.

The Thomas' treatment aids nature by eliminating the baldness producing germ, then revitalizing the dormant hair "roots" so that a new growth of hair is visible generally within a few weeks. Let The Thomas' examine your scalp today, without charge or obligation, and start your scalp on the road to health by their own original fifteen-year proven treatment.

You, Too, Can Have a Good Head of Hair

Gentlemen: When I started the Thomas' treatment my hair was falling excessively and becoming very thin. I was also troubled with itchy scalp and dandruff. Now my hair has stopped falling, the dandruff disappeared entirely and I am pleased to say a new growth of hair covers my entire scalp.

Yours very truly,

BAN ON STEEL TRAPS

Validity of the act of the last legislature, prohibiting use of steel traps to catch game, was upheld by the supreme court in a decision rendered the act did not violate constitutional provision for the protection of private property.

The law prohibits the use of steel traps except in the salt marshes along the coast and within sight of houses where fowl or animals are kept.

The supreme court also upheld an injunction by the Stone Mountain superior court against holding dog races. The appeal was brought by C. H. Gullatt, who operated the Dixie Lakes dog races. The supreme court said that a so-called "profit-sharing system" in use at the resort, under which a division of profits was given those who chose the winning dogs, was gambling and illegal.

A judgment of the Crisp county superior court granting a non-suit in the case of C. L. McMillan against the state superintendent of banks, seeking payment of a cashier's check, was reversed by the supreme court.

The check, which was in the sum of $3.559.66, was drawn by the Georgia State bank's Cordele branch on the Citizens and Southern bank, of Atlanta. The Atlanta bank refused payment because the bank at Cordele, one of the Manley chain, had been closed before the check was presented.

The state superintendent refused to classify McMillan's claim as a preferred one. The decision of the supreme court Wednesday was to the effect that the evidence was strong enough to have warranted submission of the question to the jury.

ATLANTA Has More Actual Spendable Money Income, per capita, than any City in the Entire South

> Figures recently compiled by "Sales Management" show that Atlanta possesses greater buying power than any city in the South. The actual spendable money income per capita was determined for 80 principal cities: Atlanta ranked far ahead of any other Dixie metropolis—with a per capita buying power-figure of $823.00.... Atlanta is one of the best markets in the entire country, and one unusually responsive to the right type of advertising.

Fantastic Career Ends as Pair Is Found Dead in Studio.

BY H. ALLEN SMITH.

United News Staff Correspondent.

NEW YORK, Dec. 11.—(United News.)—Henry Grew Crosby, modernistic poet, expatriate, dreamer of weird dreams and a nephew of the late Mrs. J. Pierpont Morgan, ended his grotesque career by firing a bullet into his brain in the studio apartment of a Manhattan painter. With him in death went Josephine Rotch Bigelow, attractive young wife of a Harvard post-graduate student.

Detectives, reviewing the facts today, could not decide whether Crosby, who scoffed at America and the "prairies of prosperity," murdered the young woman as she lay beneath a day, could not decide whether Crosby, who scoffed at America and the "prairies of prosperity," murdered the young woman as she lay beneath a silken coverlet with him, or whether they died in a suicide pact.

There were no notes to tell the story. Crosby, married and the father of two children, had on several previous occasions secretly met Mrs. Bigelow in the studio apartment.

Yesterday he called his friend, Stanley G. Mortimer, Jr., portrait artist, and asked if he might use the apartment for a few hours "to meet a friend." Mortimer assented, and shortly after 1 p. m. Crosby and Mrs. Bigelow arrived. Crosby had been drinking and produced a quart bottle of whisky upon his arrival.

Mortimer stayed with them until 4 o'clock, during which time most of the whisky was consumed. Then he left, and Crosby asked that he leave the key behind.

Late in the night when Mortimer returned he found the door chained from the inside. There was no response to his repeated knocks and finally, with the aid of a janitor, he broke the door down.

Inside, their bodies and faces covered, Crosby and the girl lay in bed. Mortimer pulled down the silk coverlet. Crosby's arm encircled Mrs. Bigelow's neck. Their left hands were clasped. In Crosby's right hand was a pistol of French make. There was a bullet hole in the woman's temple and one in Crosby's.

Sheriff Hall immediately assigned every available deputy to the investigation and additional county police were put on the case. An inquest will be held today, the sheriff said.

"A very horrible crime certainly has been committed," Mr. Hall declared. "We are going to leave no stone unturned to identify this woman and then we are going to try to find her murderer."

The sheriff said he believed it posmitted with the sheriff said he heard on of that type of coat on a woman on of that type of coat on a woman on the extreme was approaching middle age," the sheriff declared. "The shoes, too, evidently are for a young woman, maybe a girl not out of her teens."

Sheriff Hall said he would send deputies to Atlanta today to check over reports of girls and young women reported missing from their homes in the last year and then request their relatives to view the body.

"We must get the body identified before we can hope to find the murderer."

Wall Street Briefs.

NEW YORK, Dec. 11.—A number of investment trusts, which fared rather badly in the recent stock market break, are still at work repairing the damage caused by the hreak. This is being done by various means, such as repurchase of their own stock to reduce capitalisation or acquiring investments at bargain prices. Stockholders of the Ungerieder Financial Corporation today voted to reduce the outstanding capital stock from 416,378 shares to 250,000 shares. Similar action by other trusts is expected to be announced soon.

Tax selling for the balance of the month will undoubtedly cause much irregularity in stock market movements. In a general way, we look for the month of December to stand out as a month of rising rather than of falling prices. The artificial stimulations now present in the market may have some hearing on holding trade conditions throughout the country.

BOND MARKET SLOWS AS SEASONAL MONEY TIGHTENING CUTS DEMAND MANY COMPANES JOIN

Headed by the Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Co., a number of companies today announced extra or increased dividends, swelling by many millions of dollars the already large bursements.

Directors of the Westinghouse com pany, the stock of which was expected in some circles to be split up, announced that the annual dividend rate solution of both the preferred and common stocks would be increased from $4 to $5. Quarterly payments of $1.25 each were declared earnings for the current year, the chairman reported, would sapproximate $10 a share, an increase of between $1 and $2 over last year's per share earnings.

Extra dividends of $1 each were declared on the "A" and "B" stocks of the National Cash Register Co., addition to the regular quarterly payment of 75 cents a share on the "A" solution to the regular $1 annual payment on the "B" stock, extra dividends of the same amount were paid last January.

Other companies announcing extra

Other companies announcing extra dividends and the amounts included the following: Safety Car Heating & Lighting Co., $2: L. S. Starrett Co., 25 cents, and the Marlin-Rockwell Corp., 75 cents. The last named com-pany also declared a special dividend of $1.50.

of $1.50.
Directors of the McCall Corporation decided a quarterly dividend of 62 1-2 cents, placing the stock on a $2.50 annual basis. Last month the stock which paid $4 annually, was split two

An initial quarterly dividend or 20 cents a share was declared on the common stock of the Fairfax Airport. Inc., of Kansas City. A large part of the income of this company is derived from the sale of natural gas, which flows from 14 wells on its property.

According to advices from London cotton spinners in Manchester have decided to hold a meeting early next week to consider the state of trade, and there may be a ballet on the control of and there may be a ballot on the quesand there may be a ballot on the question of shortening working hours or an extended holiday stopping.

Liverpool cables said that some continental buying and covering had been supplied by realizing and hedging in that market. These advices reported a fair cloth inquiry from India, but said the démand from China was easily satisfied and that varns were freely said the démand from China was easily satisfied and that yarns were freely offered. Houses with continental connections were credited with buying a little cotton here during the early trading. Southern selling was light, but was said to be slightly more active than yesterday.

Exports today 19,863 bales, making 3,603,667 so far this season. Port receipts 40,861. United States port stocks 2,620,267.

AGAIN QUIET. NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 11.—(F)—
There was little desire to trade in the cotton market today and as a result prices fluctuated middly. An early decline was followed by a moderate advance but the improvement lacked support and new lows were made in late trading. January contracts, which had recovered from 17.12 to 17.20, eased off and closed at 17.10, or 7 points net lower. The general market closed steady at net declines of 4 to 9 points.

With Liverpool cables 4 to 6 points lower than due, the local market opened easy. First trades showed losses of 4 to 5 points and prices eased a little further after the start on a somewhat bearish weekly weather and

In making public this questionnaire today the commerce department said that the question of home ownership would make possible a classification of families according to economic status or buying power.

The counting of radio sets is expected to give a direct answer to the question as to the size of the potential radio audience.

Enumerators will pay special attention to the classification of gainful workers according to occupations and industry and a special schedule for unemployment will contain a number of questions designed to separate those not working into several classes.

Trading Marked by Caution BY STANLEY W. PRENOSIL, Associated Press Financial Editor.
NEW YORK, Dec. 11.—(42)—Trading on the New York Curb Exchange showed a further shrinkage in volume today, with prices developing increased irregularity. A flurry of buying carried several issues upward in the early trading, but the higher prices invariably attracted increased offerings, and some sharp recessions took place in the last hour of trading.
Professional operators supplied the bulk of the day's activity, with the public apparently showing little-interest in the proceedings. Brokers report a good investment demand for some of the high-grade issues, but most of these orders are placed below the market and on a scale down, few buyers showing any disposition to reach for stocks.

Standard Power & Light was marked up nearly 14 points to 138 3-4, and then fell back to 180. Electic Bond & Share again encountered heavy offering after crossing 92, and slipped back to 89 1-2 for a net loss of 3-4. American Light & Traction dropped 7 1-2 points and Common wealth Edison 4 3-4 in odd lot trading. Brazilian Traction and United Gas yielded a point or more. Despite reports of recession in several of the leading, industries, electrical output of most of the leading power and light companies is showing steady expansion, and several merger discussions are still under way.

"Crowds Throng Erlanger, Thrilled by 'VAGABOND KING."—The production of Rudolph Friml's famous operetta lived up to every advance notice as a thrilling, romantic drama and as a musical play with many exquisite airs.-Seats will be at a premium long before the week's engagement is finished."—Ben Cooper in Atlanta Constitution.

"Shows like 'THE VAGABOND KING' come along too seldom.—'THE VAGABOND KING' has the fire of greatness burning throughout four absorbing acts. — 'THE VAGABOND KING' is a great show, a marvelous show." -Ernest Rogers in Atlanta Journal.

"One must hark back many years to find the superior of THE VAGABOND KING." Its thundering choruses, delicately appealing melody and the magnificence of its presentation will place it in the memories of Atlanta theatresom Time." "-James B. Nevin, Jr., in Atlanta Georgian.

The information was contained in a letter from Lakin to Aballi last March. It was obtained from Lakin's files by a lobby committee investigator and read into the record today by Chairman Caraway, of the committee. The letter said:

The letter said:
"There is a matter in which I believe you could be of the greatest benefit in connection with the sugar tariff. According to my views, one of our most important arguments is that other Latin-American countries will claim that if Cuba's close relations with the United States result in damage to Cuba they had better fight shy of having a similar thing happen to them.

shy of having a similar thing happen to them.

"Therefore, it seems to me that it would be a good thing to call the situation to the attention of the appropriate persons in other Latin-American countries. Of course, that could be done-officially by the Cuban government, but I do not at the moment see any reason why it should not appear to come from the Hacendon to the second countries.

This association is an organization of Cuban mill owners, of which Aballi is president. an, 60, today, took 12 pocketbooks containing a total of $500, overlooked $1,000, and dropped three of the pocketbooks in making their escape. Police said McGlashan feared to trust the banks with his savings.

of Cuban mill owners, or which Adali is president.

The suggestion then was made that Aballi have briefs which had been prepared for the Cuba Company and advocated a low duty, transplated into Spanish and printed and that copies to all congressmen, governors be sent to all congressmen, governors and mayors of Cuba as well as to the leading economic associations and the newspapers.

"Suggestions could be made to the "Suggestions could be made to the newspaper editors to circulate the briefs among their newspaper correspondents in other Latin-American countries." the letter continued, "I suppose there must be many persons in Havana who are correspondents for other Latin-American newspapers. There are also Cubans who have been in the diplomatic service who are acquainted with prominent men in other countries to whom they could send opies of the briefs, with suggestions that their friends circulate these cop-copies of the briefs, with suggestions that their friends circulate these copies and obtain, if possible, comments of the foreign members."

Aballi was told that two or three reliable friends would have to be selected by himself "to undertake the work in a confidential and competent manner," and Lakin added that he did not see how he could "do anything of that kind here in New York."

DEMAND FOR SEATS TO PASSION PLAY KEEPS INCREASING

The Passion Play, as presented by Georg Fassnacht and his Freiburg players at the auditorium all of this week, upon its intial showing in the south, has been given a warm reception and the crowds that have thronged to see it nightly is proof of the magnetic drawing powers of this simple story of the Master.

According to officials of the Southern Musical bureau, who arranged for the appearance of the players here, the sale of tickets for the remainder

The club was exquisitely decorated for the occasion with bowers of pink wisteria blossoms and smilax, palms and ferns, and artistically arranged throughout the rooms were quantities of tiny electric bulbs shaded by wisteria blooms and forming an arbor over the entire foyer and ballroom. The ballroom was transformed into a lovely garden scene, with palms, ferns and shrubs and along the sides were white latticed trellises entwined with pink wisteria. The colonial pillars were covered with ropes of smilax and capping the top of these white columns were clusters of pink tulip electric lights. The orchestra loft was screened from view by palms and ferns and mid these were the same artistic tulip lights.

A one-act marionette performance of "Beauty and the Beast" will accompany the talk on the "History of the Marionette" to be given by Miss Cornella Cunningham, well-known Atlanta artist, at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon, December 15. in the auditorium gallery of the High Museum of Art, 1262 Peachtree street. The lecture will embrace the history of the marionette from its incipiency to the present time, showing how the art combines costume design, music, drama, literature and even sculpture, that art being employed in the formation of the faces and bodies of the marionette figures. Miss Cunningham has had wide experience with marionette figures. Miss Cunningham has had wide experience with marionettes. She is a former instructor of art at the High museum, having at one time had charge of all art classes at that institution.

In the presentation of "Beauty and the Beast" Sunday afternoon at the museum, Miss Cunningham will employ an improvised stage and a cast of three persons who will be in full view of the audience, each manipulating his own marionette and reproducing the voice of the little figure. Miss Cunningham will explain clearly how the figures are made and handled to produce a performance which combines the best in the various forms of art.

DANGERS IN DIETS

TO END FAT A BETTER WAY

MANY more people would fight fat in the right way if they did not fear some harm. The slender figures, multiplied in late years, could be multiplied again. But the danger lies in starvation or abnormal exercise. The right way is to combat the cause. It usually lies in an under-active gland. That scanty gland secre-tion lets too much food go to fat. Modern physicians, in treating obesity, feed the lacking substance.

That method is the basis of Marmola prescription tablets. They are prepared by a famous laboratory, to offer this right method at its best. People have used them for 22 years-millions of boxes of them. The results are seen in every circle. Almost everyone has friends who can show and tell the many good

The Marmola prescription is not secret. Each box contains the formula, and all the good results are explained. The user who gains new youth and beauty, new health and vigor, knows exactly why.

If you suffer from excess fat, combat the cause. It is a blight to beauty and to health. Don't starve, but feed the system a substance that is lacking. Marmola tablets do that.

Consider how many have employed this method, and for 22 years. It must be right. Go learn what they have learned. Watch the results from a box or two of Marmola, and let those results decide. Start now. Don't delay appearing at your best.

Marmola prescription tablets are sold by all druggists at $1 a box. Any druggist who is out will gladly order for you.

Such a feast as Reddy Fox and Mrs. Reddy had had on that turkey! When they finished there was little left but feathers and bones, and these were all nicely hidden under the barn of the very farm where the turkey had been caught. You see, Reddy and had been caught. You see, Reddy and Mrs. Reddy were smart enough to know that the farmer would not expect them to hide so near. Therefore, they were safer there than if they had gone far away. It was broad daylight by the time they finished that turkey, so they decided to spend the day right where they were under the barn. And this is exactly what they did do. Jinmy Skunk was curled up in one corner and Reddy and Mrs. Reddy were curled up in another corner.

Having eaten so much, they were very sleepy. They slept all day. The turkeys had already gone to roost by the time they ventured out. This is turkeys had already gone to roost by the time they ventured out. "This is no place for us to stay," said Reddy to Mrs. Reddy. "It would be foolish to try to get another turkey right away. The thing for us to do is to go back home for a few days. Then we can try the same trick over again." So it was not until four days later that Reddy and Mrs. Reddy tried for another turkey. They tried the same told trick. Mrs. Reddy showed herself and led the dog away. Reddy stole down as near to the tree where the turkeys which were making their way slowly toward the apple down as near to the tree where the turkeys roosted as he could get and waited for them to come to roost. From any druggist, get 2½ ounces of Pinex, pour it into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey. Thus you make a full pint of better remedy than you could buy ready-made for three times the cost. It never spoils and tastes so good that even children like it.

Not only does this simple mirture scothe and heal the inflamed throat membranes with surprising ease, but aslo it is absorbed into the blood, and acts directly upon the bronchial tubes, thus aiding the whole system in throwing off the cough. It loosens the germiladen phlegm and eases chest soreness in a way that is really astonishing.

Think this over,

VHY is Foremost milk more nourishing for your baby than another kind?

Special care is one answer. All day, every day, scientifically trained dairymen guard the quality of Foremost milk to achieve but one purpose-to give your baby the greatest possible amount of radiant health.

Everything receives the attention of these experts. The care of the herds - the sunny cleanliness of the dairy - the modern glass-lined pasteurization plant-the gleaming, sterilized bottles that must be packed only in clean ice. Yes, and the speed with which your own bottle of Foremost is delivered to your door.

That is special care, mothers. And it is why Foremost is more nourishing for your child. Sold by grocers and druggists-look for the word Foremost on the bottle top.

Dunlap's nomination followed the regrets sent in by Austie Downes, University of Georgia quarterback, who cannot play on account of injuries. Dunlap stood next in line on the coaches' list of eligibles, Dr. Funkhouser advised user advised.

Dunlap signified his intention of accepting the invitation and will share the duty with Clyde Crabtree, of Florida. Crabtree has been invited but has not as yet accepted. 16 ACQUIESCE.

Acceptances already have been received from 16 men of the southern division eleven, the Shrine committee announced last night. Vernon (Catfish) Smith, of Georgia, declined to play as an end on account of injuries and Jimmy Moore, the young flankman of the Alabama team, was immediately substituted and invited to play.

From acceptances in the hands of the committee now, the Southern squad is certain to include Eberdt, Alabama, center; Steele, Florida, and Boedenger, Tulane, guards; Maree, Tech, and Sington, Alabama, tackles; Dalrymple, Tulane, and Jones, Tech, ends; Dunlap, Tech, quarterback; Thomason, Tech, and Armstrong, Tulane, halfbacks; "Cowboy" Woodruff, Mississippi, fullback. Billy Banker, of Tulane, has publicly announced he would play but his formal acceptance has not been received. Benny Rothstein, of Georgia, has been invited to play fullback and is expected to accept. The full squad of 25 is expected to be completed within the next few days.

The Northern division squad has accepted to full strength with exception of Brown and Abernathy, of Vanderbilt, and Farris, of North Carolina. These men, however, are expected to file their papers this week and complete the squad. From acceptances in the hands of

In the same Pullman car on the Crescent Limited Tuesday bound for the Southern conference meeting at Baton Rouge rode the head football coaches of Georgia and Georgia Tech., Harry Mehre, chaperoned by H. J. Stegeman, came over from Athens and met Bill Alexander and Gus Tebell, of North Carolina State. The four of them fared forth on the first relaxation they have enjoyed since last September.

Coach Mehre had been better treated than any of them by football fortune. His team had lost only four games. Coaches Alexander and Tebell lost count of their defeats. Yet it was a most congenial party. You might have thought that Georgia, Tech and North Carolina State had been tied for the championship. Most coaches snap out of the strain and the tensity of a football season as soon as the last whistle of all blows.

Where one day one had been trying to outguess the other with schemes and stratagems, the next finds them foregathering pleasantly. Not so with football fans, who nurse their grievances and air their triumphs for months on end.

think the present happy relations between Georgia and Tech natural and adjacent rivals can be credited in part to the character of the young men who are coach-

When coaches have such cordial relations their players and the students in their institutions absorb some of that spirit.

TWO COACHES' SENSE OF HUMOR.

Messrs. Mehre and Alexander fortunately have a sense of humor, a quality usually totally missing from the make-up of the average alumnus. Two quotations from the rather limited volume of public utterances of these two coaches during the past season show this quality of wholesome humor.

After trailing North Carolina until late in the game, Georgia put on a furious rally and won. Afterward Coach Mehre was asked what he thought of the game. Squinting an eye and dropping his voice to a confidential whisper, he told a reporter: "You know for a while I thought we were going to lose that one." And Tuesday at the Rotary Club luncheon Coach Alexander laughingly told his boys: "You'd better enjoy this luncheon-it looks like a quiet winter for us along the luncheon front."

This happy faculty of taking the victories and defeats as they come and playing the game for the game's sake is highly developed in most coaches. A few coaches take themselves very seriously and in so doing soon outlive their usefulness. Georgia and Tech are fortunate in having such cheerful sportsmen at the head of their football forces.

They are the only be cared for in fitting fashion. unsung heroes left in the over-vocalized sport. The halfbacks always have had their psalms of praise. The coaches get equal amounts of laurel and raspberries, according to whether their teams win or lose. Lately the linemen have dominated the picture—"the unsung heroes" who "grub unselfishly for others in the dirt" and all that have disappeared from the picture.

In fact, one is becoming fed up on hearing so much

The officials have been breaking into print this season with unprecedented force. In other years the official rarely was mentioned save in the summary.

Now he has risen to the importance of a problem. His activities have suddenly become a matter for frank discussion where in years past his person and his acts were regarded a something inevitable like the rain. Being a professional element in an amateur sport he has been praised and censured freely.

Only the men who hold the chain remain anonymous. Wayward thinks their names should be included in the summary at least. Some of them are loval alumm who have held the chain for 10 years. Others are third-string substitutes who are above petty self-consciousness. All of them are worthy of honor. Theirs is a responsible job.

BEATS HIS OWN ALMA MATER.

Believe it or not, but a stakeholder lost a game this season for his alma mater by a faux pas with the chain. I will mention no names because I know he has suffered untold pangs

Team A had the ball, first down, just 12 inches more than 10 yards from team B's goal line. The forward end of the chain therefore was a foot short of the goal. Team A smashed the line four times and on the fourth buck seemed to have made a touchdown. Team A's stake-holder dropped his pole and threw up his hands in glee, capering about in pardonable exuberance.

The referee finally untangled the pile and saw that the ball lacked six inches of being a touchdown. However, he knew NEW YORK, Dec. 11.—(United News.)—Williah (Wild Bill) Mehlhorn, star pro golfer, left off last spring's United States Ryder cup golf the chain was several inches BEYOND the goal line. Hudson Edwards, 'Buck' Flowers Report for Basketball Practice.

By Herb Clark.

With "Buck" Flowers and Hudson Edwards, freed from their football duties, as his latest recruits, Coach Roy Mundorff continued pushing his Georgia Tech basketball squad for the coming season with a scrimmage at the gym Wednesday afternoon.

Plans were completed Wednesday

Plans were completed Wednesday for the Christmas trip. Leaving on December 26, the Jackets will play a 5-game schedule, meeting leading quintets of the east.

The Lions of the University of Pennsylvania will be faced in the opener on December 28 at Philadelphia to open the playing slate. They are normally a fast and experienced team and should give the Jackets a real test. Dropping over to Hoboken, New Jersey, on December 30, the Engineers will take on the Stevens Institute squad in another game which will try the mettle of the Jackets.

Tech will celebrate New Year's Day by meeting the strong Crescent Athletic Club of Brooklyn, on their home court. St. Thomas college of Scranton, Pennsylvania, will furnish the opposition on January 3, while the Franklin and Marshall quintet will face the Jackets on January 4 to close the schedule.

FIRST GRIDMEN.

Flowers and Edwards are the first of the grid squad to trade their moleskins for shorts. Vance Maree, Sage Colvin, and Jim Brooke all worked with the Jackets last season and may come back for more this year. Maree will stay in training for football until after New Year's and the all-star game, while Brooke's knee is still giving trouble and may prevent his reporting.

ing trouble and may prevent his reporting.

The possible losses of Maree and Brooke has driven Coach Roy Mundorff to a search for another pair of guards to replace Goldin and Wages should they be forced from the floor.

Ernie Sullivan, a guard from last season's reserve crew, and Jack Warner, formerly a forward, have been working together—and may be the winning combination. Bill Tate, who played a center on the reserves last year, has been shifted to the guard post, but with little success. Tate will probably be retained as a pivot man, Waldrep and Mathes, both graduates from the freshman team of last year, are others who may help solve the problem.

The answer is a surprising one, looked at from the surface only. Instead of staying away in droves to register their disgust over a miserable program, the fans, two days before the coming fight, have supplied Madison Square Garden with most of the makings of a $100,000 gate.

General interest by that time is divided into a number of sections. September has come to be one of the great sporting months of the year, carrying the amateur golf championship, the national tennis championship, a championship fight and the start of football. At that spot baseball, having started five months or more before, has begun to drag. It doesn't help the game when paid admissions fall off to 200 or 300 in one big city after another.

It is for these reasons that baseball action should be speeded thereby crowding in more action. Baseball can't loaf along down the stretch as it did last September and compete with contests that are hitting on top speed. Big league baseball, starting late in February with the training season, should end late in September. That is time enough in the modern whirl to put on any show. Action has to be faster and more compact to find its place in the present sporting structure.

Horween and Harvard

Arnold Horween turned out a smart, high powered Harvard football team for the stretch this season and it was only natural that Harvard would want him back. Horween is not only a good football coach but he has just reached the stage where he can begin to put his experience into practice, where he can begin to check on what he has learned. It takes about five years for a football coach to get a grip on the situa-tion and build a foundation upon which he can stand. All too frequently good coaching material is let out just at the point where it is ready

The head coach of a football team has one of the most complicated Jobs in sport. He has more to teach in a shorter space of time than any other director from any other game. The fundamentals have been increased and the general complications of play have been more than

The good coach is bound to build his foundation on fundamentals above everything else. From this point he can work his way forward. But modern fundamentals take far more time than the old game required. The forward and the lateral pass have increased the burden. There is now less time for any one special line of duty, since there are so many duties to be faced.

The wonder is that so many coaches and teams do as well with all the handicaps they face.

Horween has the knack of making his squad like football. He has increased general interest in football enormously at Harvard. He does not believe in any driving, high pressure system, but goes at things with more serenity than many coaches show. He has tried as far as possible to keep football a game, and not a substitute for war. He should more useful to Harvard next season than he has ever been before, with needed experince to help him along.

Time, the Teacher.

Walter J. Travis used to say about golf that it took five years to learn the correct way of swinging and then five more to forget it. He meant by this that it took the last five years to make the swing instinctive, to place it beyond the thought of effort, where it would work automatically.

Bob Zuppke, of Illinois, said recently that it took at least five years for a football coach to get started. In those five years he was just beginning to learn. "And most of them," says Dr. Zuppke, "are still learning new things after 15 or 20 or 25 years."

learning new things after 15 or 20 or 25 years."

This is all true. Time is the greatest of all instructors for those willing to work and study and call on past experience for future guidance. At the end of his first four years at Harvard as head coach, Percy Haughton had yet to see his first touchdown scored against Yale. Scoreless ties and field goals were the features through that period. By 1912 he was ready to cash in on his experience and then things began to happen. In the next four years his Harvard team ran up 112 points against Yale without a Blue touchdown scored against them. The greatest inventor in the world will be the one who can work out a short cut to something really worth while.

Atlanta Y. M. C. A. has not been represented with a basketball team during the past two years, but with interest in the game increasing in the city, a successful effort has been put forth and a team has been organized. It will be unusual in that there is no coach of the Atlanta Y. M. C. A. team, but don't get the idea that it will be weak. Far be it from that, for five of the players have played together for four years, It will be strong, in fact, one of the best in the city.

Four or five promising youngsters are working out daily in an effort to become reserve members of the new team.

"INTERNAL" DISCUSSION.

"INTERNAL" DISCUSSION.

There was little of public interest accomplished in the lengue meetings. President E. S. Barnard said the American league devoted itself to a discussion of "internal" questions, while the only notable action by the National league, according to President J. A. Heydler, was a decision to ask the manufacturers of the official baseballs if they can turn out a ball with the gloss removed. Under the rule now in force in the National league, the umpires discolor the balls before giving them to the pitchers, in order that they may get a better grip.

Mr. Heydler said the National league umpires will be permitted to umpire in the spring exhibition games this year. Last year they were not called to the colors until the regular season opened. In concluding his account of the Stribling-Carnera bout in London, Mr. Jeffery Farnol says that it was a most unsatisfactory fight. I am wondering if it could have been any less satisfactory than the Battle of What of It at Miami Beach last winter, which involved the same young William Stribling and Jack Sharkey, who sometimes is known as Josef Paul Cukoschay. Probably not. London does not know just how unsatisfactory fights can be.

Naturally, the spectators were astonished at some of the developments in the ring. Carnera was knocked down by Stribling, and having no regard for the best traditions of the British prizering he rose before the count of ten and resumed fighting. In London it always has been considered very bad for a heavy-weight, once rendered horizontal, to rise again. But the crowd was considerate. It did not hoot Carnera for becoming vertical

And then Stribling was knocked down. The Georgian missed chance to endear himself to the new clientele by remaining horizontal. But somehow he seemed to lose his head from the effects of the punch and at the count of nine he rose to his feet again to the astonishment What made it worse was that there were many ladies of the crowd. present, and the fact that both of the heavyweights rose from the horizontal position in the same evening, made the affair seem positively

PRINCE AT RINGSIDE

And to make matters still worse, the Prince of Wales was occupying a ringside seat, from which he witnessed the unseemly exhibition put up by the two visiting heavyweights. Mr. Farnol describes his entrance in the introductory paragraph:

"Through the blue haze, innumerable faces mounting row upon row from ringside to roof; faces all turned in one direction as the great organ pealed joyous welcome to the prince, who moved to his place amid such heartfelt cheers as should have gladdened his heart, a roar of joyous acclaim that verily seemed to drown the organ's thunderous triumph."

Of course, it is almost tragic that these untoward circumstances should have risen with this setting. I do not blame General Dawes, our ambasador to the Court of St. James. He could not have foreseen what was to happen.

INSTRUCTIONS MISSING

If he had, he might have instructed Stribling as to the customs of the British prizering. Our traveling athletes are supposed to be ambassadors of good-will, it seems. Therefore, they never should violate the customs and the best traditions of the country they happen to be visiting. There is no doubt that if Stribling had known that a heavyweight in England, once on his back, is supposed to remain horizontal, he would have fol-

As to Carnera, he probably was called down by the Italian ambasasdor in order that he may never again commit the social and diplomatic blunder that he committed in London.

While no diplomatic representations have been made over the affair, the failure of both gladiators to respect the best traditions of the British prizering has created a profound impression, especially since the violation of horizontalism happened in the presence of the prince. I understand that there is some talk of barring ladies from future contests between visiting heavyweights in order that they may not be subjected to the indelicate sight of seeing two fallen prizefighters rise in the presence of

AS MR. FARNOL SAW IT

In spite of what he must have felt, when he considered the outraged eelings of the prince, Mr. Farnol is quite temperate in his description of the affair. He writes in The Evening Standard:

"But in the third (round) were such doings as are seldom seen in the ring nowadays. At the gong out from the corner leaped Stribling—a dodge, a feint—then in he went, reached Carnera with a left, shook him up with a right and clinched; took three or four half-arm jabs and still clinched—and clinched, indeed, so hard and close that the referee had to break them and caution against holding. Then they were sparring in the middle of the ring, Carnera vainly leading, Stribling ducking and dodging, calmly determined as ever; and now they seemed more than ever like vicious panther and good-natured elephant.

'And then it happened. Stribling leaped, drove his right up to that big, lofty chin, and—yes, by heavent the elephant was down. Goliath had fallen. Carnera, on hands and knees, was staring wild-eyed at the canvas, as one who disbelieves that such a thing could possibly be.

STRIB CRASHES FLOOR

"He made to spring up, but his second's warning voice saved him, while Broadrib, the referee, began to count; and with every count, as I watched, it seemed to me that this young giant's face changed—the eyes glared, the smiling lips curled snarling back from big teeth, the brows knit in a scowl. 'Eight,' called the referee, and Goliath was afoot—raging killer who leaped and crashed his foe to earth.

"And surely Stribling felt that strange, terrible blow—I could see his face very plainly and it (in turn) changed—its serenity was gone, his eyes were glazed, and it was with an effort that he got to his hands and knees and, as he waited, sucking in the lifegiving air, he must have sensed the hopelessness of the task before him.

'Nevertheless, he was up at the count of nine, and (like the knowledgeful fighter that he is) instantly closed with Carnera, clinched and clung until the referee forced them asunder, and then the fateful bell ended this truly terrific round."

THE EVENING IS RUINED

Judging from Mr. Farnol's account there was plenty of melodrama in the bout while it lasted. Certainly it sounds more exciting than the Battle of What of It at Miami Beach. At least there was action in London, even if it consisted largely of tumbling.

But evidently it is not lack of action that Mr. Farnol complains. He is hinting his displeasure at the double faux pas committed by the gladiators in rising when they should have remained reclining. That ruined the entire evening for everybody.

I understand that after the bout the prince sat down at the festal board with Carnera, indicating that there was no real resentment. might be explained by the fact that Carnera was not on his back but only on his hands and knees, and thus he did not actually rise from the horizontal position.

ing, on the contrary, was for the time as horizontal as Joe Beckett, but lacked the breeding to remain in that position.
It is to be hoped that American heavyweights visiting England in the future will be schooled in canvas manners so they will not dust the rosin from their tights in the presence of His Royal Highness and Ladies of

NEW YORK, Dec. 11.—"Speed," said Walter Johnson, here for the big league meetings, "is largely a matter of timing. I am constantly trying to get my young pitchers to throw naturally; just as they might throw a stone. The trouble with a lot of them is that they apply the effort in the wrong place. They start to snap their wrists before their arms are extended. "In golf you would call it tightening up. Pitching isn't so unlike hitting a golf ball. The swing of the arm and the swing of the club must be easy until the instant comes to apply the power. I never had a sore arm in all the years I pitched; probably because I had an easy motion and didn't subject my arm to sudden jerks and strains. If my legs were good, I still could pitch as well as I ever did."

"Speaking of golf," I said, "do you consider it good exercise for a base-

For this man Collins is the boy coach—he is only 26—who has been the chief tutor for the University of North Carolina football team that has smashed so many records this year.

A check-up reveals that the Tarheel team, with 346 points, now ranks secong in the nation's scoring, preceded only by Southern California with 400 points, and leads the east and south; that it has set a new alltime scoring record for University of North Carolina teams, with an average of 34.6 points a game as compared with the 32-point average made by the 1914 team; that it has won nine of its 10 games, the only loss being to Georgia by a 19-to-12 score; and that it has won more Southern conference games than any other team.

BARELY MISSED TITLE.

BARELY MISSED TITLE.

It is generally conceded that but for a let-up in one quarter of the Georgia game the Tarheels would today be hailed as southern champions.

Collins is a product of Notre Dame, a pupil of the famous Knute Rockne; Collins played end on the national championship Notre Dame team of 1924, and Rockne will tell you today that this former pupil was one of the greatest ends ever to don a uniform for any school.

Collins spent his first year after graduation at the University of Chattanooga, where he was assistant to Frank Thomas, another Notre Dame product. Incidentally, it seems quite product. Incidentally, it seems quite a coincidence that this same Frank Thomas, now backfield coach at Geor-gia, should be tutoring the only team that the Tarheels have been licked by this year.

BEGAN IN 1926.

BEGAN IN 1926.

Collins came to the University of North Carolina in the spring of 1926. The Tarheels at that time were in a football slump. They were win-ting the majority of their games, but they had not produced a really great team since the famous South Atlantic championship outfit of 1922. North Carolina was winning Southern conference basketball titles galore, and a southern track championship was ready to be harvested, but the football team wasn't kicking up much dust in southern competition. The

PLANS TO QUIT.

"You'll lose a lot of baseballs there, too," said Peck.

"Then," said Al Schacht, "I am going to resign my job of looking after the baseballs. It's hard enough to hold the jobs of coach and clown on a club without also being the ball chaser."

"You are going to keep right on being responsible for every bit of horsehide in that part of the country," said Walter Johnson.

"In that case," replied Schacht, "the balls will all have to be branded. Every time a player takes one out he has got to number it and write his name on it."

Southern track championship was southern track championship was chay to be harvested, but the football team wasn't kicking up much dust in southern competition. The alumn were beginning to set up a howl, and Head Coach Bill Fetzer, didn't have to depend on coaching, didn't have to depend on coaching, the form that a sizeable income from his Brevard estate, and consequently didn't have to depend on coaching. But the salary they asked was about twice what the university was willing to pay, and the negotiations were off.

SOLD ON IDEA.

But Miller and Stuhldreher had sold North Carolina on the Notre Dame idea, and the Tarheels began to cast about for other prospects from the Rockne school. Along came Chuck Collins, and after he had been here for a while he was requested to wire for Bill Cerney, another team-

Some of the boys thought the idea was one similar to that in force in the western conference where Major John Griffith is in charge. Major Griffith passes on eligibility and all such matters. If the Southern Conference appoints a commissioner he will do nothing but select the officials.

The officials for the big games will be largely arranged at the meeting at Baton Rouge. The officials for the next Tech-Georgia game have practically been agreed on already. While there was no definite word, it is understood that there will be at least one change.

John Andrew Kellogg awakens in a stranga room to learn that he has been to beed of his money and traveling bag by a former college acquaintance named Jennings, after a convivial night out together. The landlady of the strange boarding house insists that he telephone some friend for money before she allows him to dress. He seeds out to a hall telephone dressed in his bajamas. On the way back to his rooms be passes a pretty girl, who stares in astonishment at his appearance. His attorney, David Craig, sends him the necessary money. He leaves the boarding house and his employer learns that he failed to go to Citica. N. Y., the day before on special business for the firm. John Andrew agreed cheerfully. "Did you think I was?"

"Have you explained everything satisfactorily at your office?" she asked. "Is it all right there?"

"Better than ever. Fine. They'll get along wonderfully with me gone."
John Andrew went to work immediately on thick soup, and spread butter thickly on a hard, crisp roll, but Barbara did not touch her own consomme. "You mean you . . . left your position?"

Koto neither agreed nor objected; instead he said, "You marry lady?"

"It looks like it, Koto," John Andrew said soberly.

"You beat her once. She behave then," the old man said.

John Andrew, after that, went off feeling better.

He was waiting for Barbara Thornton when she stepped from the cab. He paid the driver; he marked at once how very lovely she was. Nothing out of place. Immaculate. For no other reason than the word John Andrew flushed.

"You look guilty," Barbara said.

"And when I drove up I saw you were leaning against the building, John Andrew. You should have waited inside—"

"Um," John Andrews said. "You're pretty gorgeous, Barbara. You—"

She smiled faintly. "Save that until we are inside. I really shouldn't have come today, but—"

"My fatal charms were too much for—"

"But I wanted to talk to you."

Inside the restaurant, sunlight fell across their table in slantwise beams; touching the jewel on the girl's hand so that it sent opalescent flashes of color across the cloth.

"You've got little gold flecks in you've yeeps, Babs," he teased. "Means you where it is."

"Right," said John Andrew brief-ly. He took the coat from the waiter before the man could hold it out for Barbara, and, when her arms slipped into the sleeves, adjusted it with a bare touch about her neck; it seem ed to him that she shrugged away.

"How does it feel to be an engaged woman?" he asked. "Any better than the time I kissed you coming back from Hanover?" She save him a sidewise glance that, the supposed, should have set his heart to thumping. It didn't. "You can unu and see me tonight," he heard her say softly. "But I do wish yeu'd get another car, John Andrew.

John Andrew told her rapidly; in spite of his earlier determination to say, nothing about the girl in the boarding house, he concluded: "And after Craig sent me down the hundred and I was out of hock, I turned around—had on the darndest pajamas I ever bought in my life—and there was this kid staring at me.

"'Good morning,' says I 'very blithely. 'Go get dressed,' says she. 'You blind me with all that passionate color.'... O, she must have been a good egg, and saw how darn funny it was."

Salary Increases Asked.

Of the entire total, salaries for the 411 employed in the department will cost $974,417.05, if recommendations of the committee are adopted. Increases totaling $2,736 are included in the list.

The evening was not a success.

But apart from the avoidance of such unfortunate solecisms, the Briton has much to learn in the art of conversational give-and-take. What am I to think when my American friend replies to fifteen minutes' steady talking on my part with the words "Oh, don't be dumb!" And if he adds that what I have been saying is so much course, but not disastrous for the English of the committee are adopted. Increases totaling $2,736 are included in the list. reases totaling $2,736 are included in the list.

Following are hikes in annual salaries recommended:

Salary of night clerk, $240; salaries of five clerks, $120 each; captain of woman's bureau, $276; salary of negro probation officer, $300; salary for new stenographer in woman's bureau, $1,200.

Other routine matters were considered.

Squawkies Great Aid. But even without such useful guides to conversation, it should not take the greenhorn long to learn the ropes. In his hotel lifts have become "elevators," the boots a "bellhop," and a bottle of ginger ale a "set-up." If a button flies off his coat he goes forth for the equipment needed to repair the damage to a shop, now a "store," where he is met with titters of amusement or blank targes of ingraphity to conversation, it should not take the greenhorn long to learn the ropes.
For the racy slang of the west is known in part already across the sea, thanks largely to the missionary enterprise of Hollywood, whose latest
"squawkies" doubtless will hasten education in this interesting field.

He felt other hands at his throat reaching over his shoulders from behind. Casting a terrified glance backward his hair stood on end at the sight his eyes revealed, for grasping him from the rear was a huge, manlike ape, its bared fangs close to his throat. The lad pinioned his wrists. Neither uttered a sound. Where was the grandmother? Condon's eyes swept the room and then bulged with horror as he realized the awful truth.

In the power of what creatures of mystery had he the lad that he might turn upon the fearsome thing at his back, Freeing one hand he struck a savage blow at the boy's face. His act seemed to unloose a thousand devils in the hairy creature clinging to his throat. He heard a hideous growl—the last thing he ever heard in this world—as he was dragged backward upon the floor. ROOMS AND BOARD

By Edgar Rice Burroughs

A heavy body fell upon him, powerful teeth grip-ped his throat, and his head whirled in a sudden blackness. The ape arose from the man's pros-trate form and shook himself. The boy, horrified, leaped from the bed to lean over the man's body. He knew that Akut had killed in his defense, even as it had killed the villainous Russian, but here in savage Africa, far from home and friends, WHAT would they do to him and his faithful ape? Body Will Be Brought From California to Atlanta for Burial.

Walter T. Roquemore, 37, former Atlantan, was killed in an automo bile accident at Merced, Cal., Tues day, and the body is expected to arrive here Friday for burial.

Mr. Roquemore was born and reared in Atlanta, and while here resided upon Whitefoord avenue. His three sisters still live in Atlanta and the entire family is well known. Until he left Atlanta for Florida six years ago he was connected with a Peach-tree tire concern. After three years in Florida he went to California where two of his brothers are residing, and

METAL THAT FLOATS

American Discovers How To Produce New Marvel Cheaply.

NEW YORK, Dec. 11.—(P)—Production by the ton of a metal that floats like cork on water, the latest floats like cork on water, the latest achievement of American metal manufacturing, was revealed tonight at the New York Electrical Society by Dr. W. C. Mactavish, professor of chemistry at New York University.

The substance is lithium, the world's lightest metal, silvery in color, softer than lead, one-half the weight of water, and such a ready mixer with other metals that its uses range from aviation to sweeter-toned bells.

Although recently produced com-

Although recently produced com-mercially in Europe, lithium still is so rare that chemical catalogs at New York University quote it at $240 a pound. The American achievement is a quantity of production methods, completed barely a month ago, making its for about $15 a pound wholesale, and in ton lots.
